Overview

ABSTRACT

The Ghana Living Standards Survey Round Six (GLSS6) like previous rounds focuses on the household as the key socio-economic unit and provides valuable information on the living conditions and well-being of households in Ghana. This report summarizes the main findings of the sixth round of the GLSS which was conducted by the Ghana Statistical Service (GSS) from 18th October 2012 to 17th October 2013.

A nationally representative sample of 18,000 households in 1,200 enumeration areas was covered in the survey. Of this number, 16,772 were successfully enumerated leading to a response rate of 93.2 percent. Detailed information collected on Demographic characteristics of households, Education, Health, Employment, Migration and Tourism, Housing conditions, Household Agriculture, Household Expenditure, Income and their components and Access to Financial Services, Credit and Assets, Governance Peace and Security.

The main objectives of the sixth round of the Ghana living Standards Survey Round Six are to:

- . Provide information on the patterns of household consumption and expenditure at a lower level of disaggregation.
- . Serve as the basis for the construction of a new basket for the next re-basing of the Consumer Price Index.
- . Provide information for up-dating the country's National Accounts.
- . Provide information on household access to and use of financial services.
- . Estimate the number of persons in the labour force (Employed, Under-employed and Unemployed) and their distribution by sex, major age-groups, educational level, disability status, geographical and rural/ urban spread, as well as the ecological manifestations of these.
- . Estimate the number of child workers (or children in employment) aged 5-17 years, and its distribution by sex, major age-groups, educational status, geographical, ecological and rural/urban spread, etc.

Publications of the GLSS 6 survey include

- * GLSS 6 Main Report
- * Poverty Profile in Ghana, 2005 - 2013
- * GLSS 6 Labour Force Report
- * GLSS 6 Child Labour Report

Sampling

Sampling Procedure

The sixth round of the Ghana Living Standards Survey (GLSS6), like the previous rounds, was designed to provide nationally and regionally representative indicators. It applied the same sampling methodology, the same questionnaires and covered the same broad range of topics such as education, health, employment, housing conditions, migration and tourism among others.

To cater for the needs of the Savannah Accelerated Development Authority (SADA) areas and also provide nationally representative quarterly labour force statistics, the number of primary sampling units (PSUs) and households were increased from 580 and 8,700 to 1,200 and 18,000 respectively - an increase of about 107% over the GLSS5 figures. (See Appendix 1 Tables A1 and A2).

A two-stage stratified sampling design was adopted.

At the first stage, 1,200 enumeration areas (EAs) were selected to form the PSUs. The PSUs were allocated into the 10 regions using probability proportional to population size (PPS). The EAs were further divided into urban and rural localities of residence. A complete listing of households in the selected PSUs was undertaken to form the secondary sampling units (SSUs).

At the second stage, 15 households from each PSU were selected systematically. Hence the total sample size came to 18,000 households nationwide. (Refer to Appendix 1 in main GLSS 6 report.)

Deviations from Sample Design

No deviation from the sample

Response Rate

A nationally representative sample of 18,000 households in 1,200 enumeration areas was covered in the survey. Of this number, 16,772 were successfully enumerated leading to a response rate of 93.2 percent

Weighting

Sample weights for the household data were computed as the inverse of the probability of selection of the household, computed at the EA level as weight in the data

Questionnaires

DATA COLLECTION NOTES

Personnel with a minimum qualification of Higher National Diploma were recruited and trained to undertake the fieldwork. These attended a 21-day training programme during which members of the Project Implementation Team (PIT) took them through the various sections of the questionnaire including concepts and definitions being used. The training also involved assessment exercises, field practice, role plays and group discussions and interviews in the major local languages.

The fieldwork was over a twelve-month period and took place from 18th October 2012 to 17th October 2013. Thirty teams were deployed to the field comprising of a supervisor, senior interviewer/editor, three interviewers and a driver. Data capture centres were setup in the regional offices of the Service, each team having a data entry officer.

SUPERVISION

Field monitoring exercises were undertaken once per cycle by the top Management of the Service, Steering Committee members, Technical Advisory Committee (TAC) members and the Project Implementation Team. The monitors observed interviews and checked completed questionnaire to ensure consistency of responses to ensure that quality.

Data Processing

Data Editing

Data editing took place at a number of stages throughout the processing, including:

- a) Office editing and coding by field editors
- b) Using range checks during data capture
- c) Structure , range and completeness checks
- d) Secondary editing using batch editing rules developed in CSPro 4.1
- e) Consistency check in all sections using STATA

Other Processing

Data was captured using CSPro 4.1 with a single entry. In all there were 30 data entry operators in the 10 regions. Each region was given a printer to print the error listings and corrected with the field editor and supervisor.

Data Appraisal

Estimates of Sampling Error

Sampling errors were calculated for some key variables. Refer to the GLSS 6 Main Report Appendix 1 attached to external resources for sampling error estimates.
